

Courses

More information on these courses is available in the Careers Department.

These are the kinds of courses that will, I hope, help students to decide what they wish to do after they leave RGS. They will also provide evidence of interest in their chosen university subject/career.

Be aware though that there is quite an industry being built up around courses like these. Do not feel that you need to pay out huge sums of money for them. There are free taster courses in many career/degree areas at London universities being advertised from January.

It is entirely up to parents and their sons/daughters to book places on courses. Some courses will fill up quickly.

RGS cannot take any responsibility for the welfare of pupils on these courses. The school is merely making you aware of their existence.

If the course takes place during school time, students must ask the permission of their head of section and Miss Arthur prior to booking.

Taster Courses

Places are available on taster courses in and around London. These are allocated on a first-come first-served basis for the majority of the taster courses so please apply as soon as possible by following the relevant link below or via the website www.london.ac.uk/tasters.

The university taster courses provide a great opportunity for prospective students to try university and a specific subject area before they apply. Most of the university taster courses last a day and are all free to attend.

London University Taster days Programme,
